About the new HSK 3.0 (2026)

In December 2025, Hanban released the new official vocabulary lists for the HSK 3.0 (2026) standard, which brought significant changes compared to the 2021 release and HSK 2.0. You can find detailed information on our blog at khanjischool.com/blog.

The new HSK divides Chinese language proficiency into 9 levels. Levels 1 to 6 each have their own independent exam, while levels 7, 8, and 9 are assessed together in a single advanced exam.

HSK 3.0 is expected to be rolled out progressively from the second half of 2026.

The transition from HSK 2.0 to HSK 3.0 represents a significant shift in learning approach, with a more realistic progression. Khanji School is pleased to have the complete HSK 3.0 (2026) vocabulary list readily available.
